Reichmuth Infrastructure and Lobo Leasing join forces in the growth of Lobo Leasing's mission-critical aircraft leasing platform

Zurich / Dublin, 18 September 2026 – Reichmuth Infrastructure, a pan-European infrastructure asset manager, has successfully completed another investment in the aviation sector by acquiring a majority stake in Lobo Leasing Ltd ("Lobo Leasing" or the "Company") on behalf of its Mobility fund and mandate clients.

Reichmuth Infrastructure and Lobo Leasing are joining forces to further expand Lobo Leasing's position as a leading mission-critical aircraft leasing platform, supported by secured funding for aircraft leases to operators across OECD countries.

The partnership combines Lobo Leasing's deep operational and technical expertise with Reichmuth Infrastructure's capital strength, industry network and investment capabilities, creating significant benefits for customers. Clients will benefit from increased financial capacity, greater flexibility in transaction structuring, faster execution, and access to a broader network of industry relationships. The enlarged management team and strong capital base will support continued fleet growth and larger, more complex transactions, while preserving Lobo Leasing's entrepreneurial culture, independence and customer-focused approach.

Filippo Rima, CIO of Reichmuth Infrastructure, commented: "We have worked closely with Lobo Leasing for many years and have been consistently impressed by its team and execution capabilities. This partnership is a natural next step and will support the continued growth of a leading mission-critical aircraft leasing platform serving essential sectors such as firefighting, emergency medical services and natural resource operations."

Dan Roberts, CEO of Lobo Leasing, added: "We are delighted to partner with Reichmuth Infrastructure. Both organisations bring deep aviation-sector experience and a shared commitment to long-term, sustainable growth. This transaction gives Lobo Leasing the backing of Reichmuth Infrastructure's highly experienced team and enables us to invest directly with our own balance sheet. We look forward to using these new capabilities in close alignment with our existing investor clients."
